88 | CHÂTEAU DE PRESSAC

Grand Cru Saint-Emilion 2007

AL-Dark ruby red, good purity on the nose with hints of forest fruit, blackberry, liquorice, vanilla and fine oak, the palate is medium bodied with a high freshness, a slightly more austere style but with fine purity of fruit and soft tannins, the finish is quite persistent with a hint of minerality and dark fruit, fine level of drinkability even if it will improve from another 3-4 years in the cellar. 88

MdM- Purple red with violet hue. Very pleasant nose with almost balmy character, a touch of oak and mild spices, very pure style. On the palate elegant, ripe tannins, medium concentration but rather good length. Convincing wine from a difficult vintage. 88
